ANGELA PASCO, MSN, RN – Director, Schuylkill Health School of Nursing, Pottsville, PA

PERSONAL STATEMENT: The role of NLNAC in development and maintenance of quality and progressive nursing education is critical. The high standards that NLNAC has established have enabled nursing education programs to meet current and future demands of an ever-evolving health care system. As the director of a nursing education program and part of that process, I understand the responsibility that nursing education programs have to students, to consumers of health care and to our communities. NLNAC remains our primary guide as we strive to meet these responsibilities. Our commitment to NLNAC's mission is vital as nursing education continues to meet future challenges.
