The Honorable Tom Cole
Ranking Member
Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education
Committee on Appropriations
United States House of Representatives
Washington, D.C.  20515

Dear Chairwoman DeLauro and Ranking Member Cole:

As the oldest nursing organization in the United States, the National League for Nursing (NLN) respectfully urges the subcommittee to allocate $266 million for the Health Resources and Services Administration’s (HRSA) Title VIII nursing workforce development programs in fiscal year (FY) 2020. The NLN promotes excellence in nursing education to build a strong and diverse nursing workforce to advance the health of the nation and the global community. The League represents more than 1,200 nursing schools, 40,000 members, and 25 regional constituent leagues.

The Title VIII nursing workforce development programs provide the main federal funding for the training of nurses to improve access to, and quality of, health care in underserved areas. These programs are fundamental to the infrastructure delivering quality, cost-effective health care. Data show that Title VIII program grantees enter practice in a medically underserved community or health professions shortage area, helping to increase access to services in rural and urban underserved communities. We appreciate the subcommittee’s past support of the Title VIII nursing workforce development programs.

A high quality-nursing workforce equals high quality care for the nation. With 4.8 million active, licensed vocational/practical nurses (LVNs/LPNs) and registered nurses (RNs), nurses are the primary professionals delivering quality health care in the nation (NCSBN 2019). According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the RN workforce is projected to grow by 15 percent from 2016 to 2026, The BLS also estimates the LVN/LPN workforce will grow by 12 percent, the advanced practice registered nurses (APRNs) workforce will grow by 31 percent, and the need for nursing faculty will grow 24 percent during the same period (BLS 2017).

While we understand the challenging fiscal decisions you must make, these decisions must ensure our nation prepares the next generation of nurses to provide quality care to all well into the 21st century. We urge you to provide $266 million for HRSA’s Title VIII nursing workforce development programs in FY 2020. If the NLN can be of any assistance or should you have any questions, please contact Christine Murphy, the NLN’s director of public policy and advocacy, at cmurphy@nln.org or 202-909-2533.

Sincerely,

Beverly Malone, PhD, RN, FAAN
