Goal: The level of skill should closely match the level of challenge.

If a person has Low Skills and High Challenge - it may produce anxiety

If a person has High skills and Low Challenge - it may produce boredom

As the skill level of an individual increases - the challenge needs to increase as well. There can be a fine line between increasing and moderating challenges.

A bit more difficult task is better than too low of a task.